Abstract: The Jonathan Pearson Street Books consist of four volumes of notes and sketch maps regarding property ownership in Schenectady from the 17th-19th centuries.

Scope and Content Note:

The Jonathan Pearson Street Books consist of four scrapbook volumes of notes and sketch maps regarding property ownership in Schenectady, created and compiled by nineteenth-century Schenectady historian Jonathan Pearson. The Street Books contain information about property ownership in Schenectady from the early settlement in the 1660s through the mid-nineteenth century. The Street Books focus primarily on Schenectady's original settlement area, now defined as the Stockade Historic District; to a lesser extent, the Street Books also cover the areas east and south of the original settlement. Source records referenced in Pearson's handwritten notes include deeds, mortgages, wills, and other documents. Occasionally, Pearson includes full transcribed copies of documents in addition to his notes.

Organization Note:

The original arrangement of the Jonathan Pearson Street Books has been maintained. Each volume contains a section dedicated to a specific street.

Sections of notes related to streets running west-east begin at their westernmost point and move east; sections of notes related to streets running south-north begin at their southernmost point and move north.

Volumes are arranged by street as follows (current street names have been appended in brackets in instances where the name of the street has changed over time):

Volume 1

Front Street
Church Street
Washington Street [now Avenue]
North Street
Jefferson Street
College Street

Volume 2

State Street

Volume 3

Ferry Street
Maiden Lane [Broadway]
Jay Street

Biographical Note:

Jonathan Pearson was born in New Hampshire in 1813, the son of Caleb Pearson and Hetty Libby. As a youth, Pearson attended Dover, Pembroke, and New Hampton Academies in New Hampshire. He also briefly attended Waterville College (now Colby College) in Maine.

Pearson moved to Schenectady in 1831 and began attending Union College early in 1832. Pearson ranked at the head of his class each year; he graduated in 1835.

After leaving Schenectady briefly to teach in Pennsylvania, Pearson returned to Union College in the fall of 1836 to teach; he would remain at Union for nearly fifty years. Pearson first served as a tutor from 1836-1839. He then served as Professor of Chemistry and Natural History from 1839-1857, Professor of Natural History from 1857-1873, and Professor of Agriculture and Botany from 1873-1887. Pearson also served as Union College's Librarian from around 1839 until 1886, and as Acting Treasurer (1851-1854) and Treasurer (1854-1883).

Pearson developed a keen interest in the history of his adopted city and became a prominent historian of Schenectady in the nineteenth century. He wrote a number of works about the history of Schenectady and Albany, including Contributions for the Genealogies of the First Settlers of the Ancient County of Albany, from 1630-1800 (1872), Contributions for the Genealogies of the Descendants of the First Settlers of the Patent and City of Schenectady, from 1662-1800 (1873), History of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Schenectady (1880), and History of the Schenectady Patent in the Dutch and English Times (1883). Pearson also learned Dutch to be able to translate early records that documented the history of Schenectady and Albany. He translated a number of records and published them as Early Records of the City and County of Albany and Colony of Rensselaerwyck (1869).

Pearson married Mary Lord Hosford, of Albany, in 1841. The couple would go on to have sons Henry, John, and William. Pearson died in 1887 and is buried in Schenectady's Vale Cemetery, in the Union College Plot.

Condition Note:

The physical volumes of the Jonathan Pearson Street Books are very fragile; the Grems-Doolittle Library has created high-quality digital images of each page of the Street Books for general access. The Librarian/Archivist reserves the right to limit access to the physical volumes and to offer digital images for patron access.
